What a cool concept! It only takes a few minutes to write an entry. Each page is labeled as the date and has 5 different spots for each year. Leave this on your nightstand and it can be the last thing you do before you turn in for the night. This would be a unique mothers day or birthday present for Mom. As others have noted it is small, please see my attached pictures to get a good idea of size.

Great gift for Mom! I got this as a gift for my Mom. I also have the more original version, the One Line A Day five year memory book. From what I can tell, the only difference is that the "Mom" version is pink on the front. Everything else inside is the same-dates to remember pages, etc. I'm still happy with it, but I thought it might have a few cute pages like "children's birthdays" or something.

As a new mom, life can get overwhelming quickly. There are bad days and good days. One day after dealing with a gassy baby who fed for an hour and half every two hours (ugh) for at least five days, I was feeling low about everything. Then I skimmed through the first few days when I met my little one and the joy of those memories flooded back and made me really appreciate this little journal. I love this whole concept of this as I don't have the time to journal each day but one-two lines about my newborn is the perfect amount. The overall look and feel is great- gold lined pages, a nice ribbon bookmark, the sticker on the back peeled off like butter. This would make a great gift for a new mom, especially at a baby shower.

This book was gifted to me by my husband when I was in the hospital after our daughter was born and two years later, not a day has passed that I haven't written in it. Each page has the date on it and then five blank areas that will house five years of memories. Each night I write a brief memory of what happened today. I can't express how amazing it is to look up at 2 years prior and go down memory lane. It's also a gentle reminder each day of how fast time/life goes by and to SLOW DOWN because one minute they are in your arms and you blink and they're running and talking and becoming little people with their own personalities. This is a beautiful gift every mother would love. I will absolutely start another one when this is complete. I am so grateful to have all of the little things that happen in the course of a day written down to look back on and smile. There is only a small amount of room for each year so it isn't overwhelming either, it takes a minute to reflect on the day and just record a new milestone or something that happened to cherish forever. Love, Love, LOVE this!!!!

Love this journal. I just finished five years of writing in my first journal and I'm starting my second. It has documented the early years of my children's lives. If there was a fire at my home, it is the one item I would be upset to lose. I have written so many sweet memories in it. It is so unintimidating to write in because each day only has a small space, rather than a big blank page. I write down all sorts of memories that I never would have otherwise documented in their baby books. Sometimes I quickly jot down funny things my kids say over a week and then add them to the journal all at once when I have time. Love it.

I just received this memory book and it is perfect for me! I can never fill a whole page when I write so this is, in my opinion, a great concept! The back of the book says the following: "Mom's one line a day, A five-year memory book, Capture the precious moments of motherhood in this unique journal. With enough space to record a thought, a family quote, or a special event each day for five years, this easy-to-maintain keepsake will help you treasure the everyday joys of motherhood that last a lifetime." Original price $16.95 US. So for anyone that is wanting to write a lot every day this is not for you, but if you want to capture the nuggets of your family life in quick notes to trigger memories of that day. This is a great way to do it.

My husband bought me this for my first Mother's Day, and this is hands down the best gift as a parent that I've received. I received various baby books at my baby shower that I've barely touched, but this journal makes it easy to keep up with since you only have to write one line per day. I keep it on my nightstand and I write in it before I go to sleep every night. I love this so much that I bought it for a coworker's baby shower, and this will be a go to gift anytime I know someone who is having a baby! I wish I had this earlier!

I haven't begun recording in this book, but am so excited to begin on date we've designated as a start date. I think this will be a hilarious and cute piece to look back on for many years to come as we jot down our girls' antics over the next few years! The book is nicely bound, seems like it will withstand daily (hopefully) use over the next few years, and has a nice little ribbon to mark your spot each day. Since I haven't written in the pages yet, I'll update if there are any concerns once I'm using this to its potential.** I would definitely recommend this for yourself or for a gift!**
